

Mini Kaizens

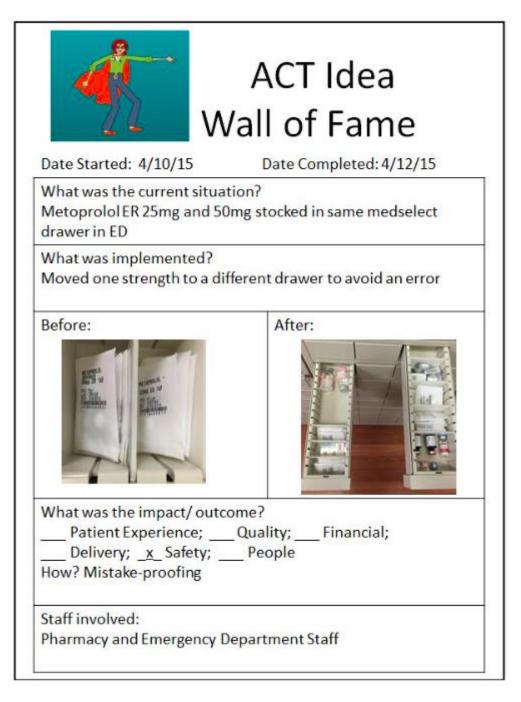

These improvement efforts involve a small but vital part of a process. They are improvement opportunities caught by an individual or a small group. One such mini-kaizen may replace the chairs in consultation rooms with higher chairs, making it easier for senior citizens to sit and stand.

The process is:

- 1. An employee identifies and documents an opportunity.
- 2. Supervisor reviews it and encourages immediate action.
- 3. Implement idea.
- 4. The idea is written up and disseminated
- 5. Recognize the contribution.
